Global Operations Update

Dear Valued Customer,

As government restrictions around the world continue to ease, Molex is well into the third phase of our global pandemic return to work plan. In this phase, the focus has been on ensuring a Safe Return to the Workplace for our employees who may have been either required to work remotely or who work at sites that may have seen more limited operations because of government orders and are now able to return. As essential operations, all Molex manufacturing sites around the world are operational at, or near, normal capacity; details are provided in the chart below.

Please understand that because there are still a number of countries, states and cities operating under travel restrictions, some of Molex's delivery schedules may be affected. We are doing our best to fulfill your orders as quickly as possible.
